

USS Mustin (DDG 89)

Guided-Missile Destroyer, Flight IIA Variant

Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyer USS Mustin (DDG 89) returned to San Diego July 22, 2021, after 15 years serving in the Forward Deployed Naval Forces (FDNF) in Japan, July 22. Commander, Naval Surface Force, U.S. Pacific Fleet (CNSP) delivers and sustains the full spectrum of balanced, affordable, and resilient naval power through manpower, training, and equipment. (U.S. Navy photo by MC1 Julio Rivera)

News:

Military Sealift Command fleet replenishment oiler, USNS John Lewis (T-AO 205) became the first ship in the new John Lewis class to conduct a fleet task under Commander, U.S. Third Fleet, by refueling the U.S. Navy guided-missile destroyer USS Mustin (DDG 89) of the coast of Southern California Saturday.

<https://www.dvidshub.net/news/493098/usns-john-lewis-completes-first-fleet-tasked-underway-replenishment>

Arleigh Burke-class guided-missile destroyer USS Mustin (DDG 89) returned to San Diego, after 15 years serving in the Forward Deployed Naval Forces (FDNF) in Japan, July 22, 2021.

<https://www.dvidshub.net/news/401544/us-navy-ship-returns-san-diego-after-15-years-service-japan>

Ship General Characteristics, Flight IIA Variant:

Christened: Dec. 15, 2001

Commissioned: Jul. 26, 2003

Length: 509.5 feet (155.3 meters)

Draft: 31 feet (9.4 meters)

Beam: 66 feet (20 meters)

Displacement: 8,300 – 9,700 tons

Crew: Approx. 329 members (32 Officers, 27 Chief Petty Officers, 270 Enlisted)

Guided-missile destroyers are multi-mission surface combatants capable of conducting Anti-Air Warfare (AAW), Anti-Submarine Warfare (ASW), and Anti-Surface Warfare (ASuW).

Three years after commissioning, USS Mustin shifted homeports to become a member of the Forward Deployed Naval Forces within Destroyer Squadron 15 in Japan. In 2021, USS Mustin returned to San Diego.

Leadership:

Commanding Officer:
Cmdr. Christina Appleman

Executive Officer:
Cmdr. Rhett Gilman

Command Master Chief:
CMDCM (SS/IW/EXW) Dan Miles